

I was writing the other day about the unfairness of the fair-trade law which was recently knocked out by the U. S. Supreme Court. The theme of my piece was that consumers are entitled to the benefits of free, competitive enterprise, and business men who are preaching it for the other fellow must practice it themselves.

Well, here comes the Arkansas Business Bulletin for July, issued by the University of Arkansas, with an intelligent discussion on "Resale Price Maintenance—What Policy for the Future?" Says the university publication:

"In considering the merits of resale price maintenance a careful distinction should be drawn between fair competition in pricing and predatory price cutting. The former is desirable; the latter obviously is not."

"While extolling the merits of competition in general, some business people seek to avoid competition for themselves. In other words, they try to protect themselves against the rigors of the competitive storm."

"What are the earmarks of unfair competition? At the extreme, the characteristics are definite and clear. When a disgruntled patron of a barbershop rented and equipped a shop across the street and offered haircuts and shaves free, it was clearly a case of unfair competition. Likewise, it is unfair practice for a manufacturer to hire away his competitor's chemist in order to obtain trade secrets."

"But the picture becomes less clear when we move toward the middle ground. For example, is it unfair competition when a merchant reduces the price of an article from $1 to 89c because he has found that due to careful buying, rapid turnover, and efficient employees, he can sell the article at 89c and still make a legitimate profit?"

"A great difficulty with resale price maintenance is that too often it fails to differentiate between the predatory pricing as illustrated by the disgruntled patron of the barbershop and close pricing as illustrated by the 89c seller. Little or no credit is given by the resale price maintenance advocate for efficiency in buying and management. Each reduction in price is assumed to be evidence of predatory activity for the purpose of driving someone else out of business."

"That's the university's report, and it is a fair and judicious analysis. Newspapers are not friendly to the advocates of hard-and-fixed retail prices—particularly when they advocate price-fixing by law. Speaking for the buying public we have to remind the sellers that if our government is to be asked to perpetually fix prices over private commerce then the next step would be for the government to take over merchandising and eliminate private profit. The growth of the so-called non-profit co-operatives is a warning."

Newspapers are in the business of selling advertising so that more goods may be sold at a narrower profit and a lower price—and we don't take kindly to any group or any system of lobby-law which interferes with either the public's cost of living or our own right to do business."

And there's certainly no profit in the long run for any private businessman to seek price-protection from government and then have that same government turn around and subsidize some co-operative to undersell him."

I'm giving it to you straight—as spokesmen for the kind of private business which wants to be here not only today but tomorrow and the day after."

2 Children Are Hurt in Grade Crash

Bald Knob, Aug. 2 —(AP)—Two children were injured seriously today when locomotive plowed into an automobile stalled on a railroad track near here.

The children, Gary Reed, five, and Rita May Reed, three, of near Judsonia, were taken to Rogers hospital in Searcy where physicians said their condition was critical.

Mrs. Clyde Reed, mother of the children and driver of the car, said she was flagging the train in an attempt to halt it at the time of the mishap. The train consisted of a passenger car and a coal car moving through freight from St. Louis to Little Rock in time to avoid the crash.

Florida has both the longest seacoast and the longest tidewater frontage among the states.

Argentinian Peron Defied by Rail Men

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 2 —(AP)—The government called in emergency crews today to run Argentina's strikebound railways, crippled earlier by a series of blasts which President Juan D. Peron's regime blamed on "alien" forces.

The anti-Peron Brotherhood of Engineers and Firemen refused for the second day to report for work.

Mounted police were sent to provincial railway stations to keep order.

Although section gangs, heavily guarded by police, repaired yesterday's bomb damage to four main lines, only two of them are operating. The others — main lines to the south and west — were closed tight by the refusal of engineers and firemen to work.

The government charged the explosions which ripped tracks and damaged railroad shops early yesterday were set off by criminals inspired by "forces alien to the country."

Private reports reaching here said the strike had paralyzed the two big rail centers of Junin to the west and Ingeniero White to the south. It apparently had not spread to Buenos Aires and Rosario, largest cities in Argentina.

The lines were blown up following the strike call by the engineers and firemen who man the state-owned railways.

The government, in its communique on the bombing, did not mention the strike which the union said was called because the regime had refused to let the union elect its own officers. The union, controlling about 8,000 of Argentina's 160,000 rail workers, said officers were hand-picked by the government.

Railroad shops at Tolosa, near La Plata, were said to have been damaged by explosions.

It was difficult to assess the effect of the strike on a nationwide basis because trunk telephone lines were closed to Abbott, Perez Millar and Monte — three key points. The government-owned company said the lines were down because of a severe storm.

Through trains to the west and south were reported to be running behind schedule or to have been cancelled altogether.

Pron broke Argentina's last railway strike Jan. 25 by using his wartime emergency powers to draft strikers. About 300 rail workers were arrested and some were tried for "crimes against the state."

No Policy Change, Says Navy Chief

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 2 —(AP)—Adm. William F. Fechteler said today he plans no changes in top-drawer naval policy on taking over his new post as chief of naval operations.

Fechteler, holding his first press conference since his nomination said he considered the policies laid down by the late Adm. Forrest P. Sherman "sound for national security."

Adm. Lynde D. McCormick, former vice chief of naval operations, may be named supreme commander of the Atlantic pact naval forces, he said. Fechteler himself was to have been commander of this force until he was named to succeed Sherman.

Sherman's leadership of the navy was "superlative," Fechteler told reporters. He said he is humble, and "fully aware of my great responsibility."

The navy's job "cannot be performed without an adequate air arm," he declared. And added that President Truman agreed with him. The appointment of Vice-Adm. Donald B. Duncan, "the navy's top aviator," as deputy chief of naval air operations, emphasized Mr. Truman's views, he said.

Fechteler arrived here late yesterday, shortly after the White House announced his appointment. His own first indication that he was to be chosen to succeed Sherman came yesterday when he was invited to lunch with Navy Secretary Dan Kimball, he said.

Afterward, during a White House conference, President Truman "went into great detail" about the navy's task in the present world situation, Fechteler said, but he did not disclose specifically what they discussed.

The new chief of operations, who disposes ceremony, met reporters in his old offices at headquarters at the commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, and answered questions from behind a huge mahogany desk. With him at the conference were several top-ranking officers, including Vice-Adm. Wendell G. Switzer, Atlantic fleet chief of staff, and Rear Adm. Cato Glover, commander of carrier division four.

U. S. Makes New Effort to Win Release of AP Man Wm. Oatis From Czechoslovakia

Washington, Aug. 2 —(AP)—Congress and the state department are making new efforts to obtain the release of AP Correspondent William Oatis from a Czech prison.

The house foreign affairs committee yesterday adopted a resolution vigorously condemning Czechoslovakia's action and urging the U. S. government to "take all possible action" to bring about Oatis' release.

The resolution is due for house action next week after which it will go to the senate. If adopted by both houses, the resolution will go to the senate. If adopted by both houses, the resolution will be sent to the Czech government and to the United Nations.

Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference yesterday that the U. S. government is taking definite steps to obtain Oatis' freedom. He declined to reveal what is being done because he said a premature revelation might not be in Oatis' best interests.

Acheson said the Oatis case is one of great importance to the government and people of the United States. Czechoslovakia turned down an earlier state department protest and appeal for Oatis' release.

The 37-year-old Oatis, a native of Marion, Ind., was convicted by a Prague court last month on charges of espionage and sentenced to ten years imprisonment.

Iranians Fire on Russian War Vessel

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 2 — (UP)—Iranian general staff sources said today an Iranian frontier post fired on a 700-ton Soviet naval vessel which entered Iranian waters Tuesday.

The frontier post fired machine guns at the Russian vessel after the Soviets threw searchlights on the post.

The sources said the vessel retired after 30 minutes fire from the Iranian post. They did not say whether the Russians returned the fire.

The Iranians said the craft entered Iranian waters in the Caspian sea near Astara.

There was no immediate explanation for the Soviet's ship alleged actions.

The sources said Iran is expected to protest against the alleged Soviet incursion into Iranian waters.

Last month unconfirmed rumors in Tehran said Soviet troops were being massed on the Soviet border inland from Astara.

At that time rumors also said a Soviet warship was in the Caspian sea off the port.

Meanwhile, the 5,450 British cruiser Euryalus staged "maneuvers" in the Persian gulf after notifying the Iranian government it would do so.

National Front Deputy Abolhasse H. Herizadeh censured Britain's "display of force" and said it jeopardized the "favorable atmosphere" necessary for settlement of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

The deputy hinted before the Caspian sea incident was disclosed that such British "displays" might encourage the Soviets to do like wise.

He pointed out "Russia is much more powerful than Britain and has extensive borders with Iran. The Soviet incident allegedly occurred off Astara which is on the western side of the land-locked Caspian sea."

Arkansas Melon Mailed to Korea at Cost of $28

Royal, Aug. 2 —(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Maey Pennington of Royal promised their older son he'd get a watermelon if they grew any this year.

They had a crop, and the other day they sent one of their best melons to Cpl. Clifford Jordan in Korea.

It took a total of 425 stamps — at a cost of $28.25 — for the crate bearing the treat, which the corporal should be enjoying this weekend.

Hal Boyle Good-Hearted, But He's Got Policeman's Feet, His Office Pals Warn Sioux

By RELMA NMORIN For Hal Boyle)

Executive Chief

The Six Nations of the Sioux Black Hills, S. D.

Dear Chief:

They tell me Hal Boyle is out in the Dakotas somewhere and that you've taken him into the tribe. You've got the right man, chief. Hal has all the makings of a mighty fine Indian.

Mind you, he won't be much good on the trail, right at first. He has policeman's feet and the expanding chassis of a Chinese idol. Incidentally, this worries him, and every once in a while — the last time was October, 1949 — he attempts some violent exercise.

On that occasion, he played three innings of softball, and for all I know, he may still have the original charity horses. You can't tell because he always walks like a cigar store Indian, er, with a sort of waddle.

Moreover, until your braves get used to seeing him around the council fires at night, it would be better to keep him in his teepee after dark. They could easily mistake him for a semi-bald buffalo.

But these are small things. Let me tell you the important reasons why I am sure he will be a credit to the tribe.

Hal is a city dweller, of course, and wholly at ease in this platy glass menagerie. He lives in a giant apartment house, works in an air-conditioned office, and knows all the curlicues of the subway. Technically, he is a New Yorker, and has been, for years.

Actually, however, he is still a middle westerner, as earthy and elemental as a Kansas wheatfield, as generous as the great plains. That part of America has stamped him with its unique hallmarks. He has the same boisterous, rocketing energy of the cities out there. His humor is as natural as spring water, bright and clear. He has no more pretense than a potato. He is inexorably honest. And for all his bubbling spirit, he is as peaceful as a small town park.

Oh, he has his problems, all right. Make no mistake about that. He is scourged and driven, as are most people in this ink-stained trade, by the remorseless necessity to say something just so and in no other way. He spends himself lavishly on this. He can go longer without sleep than any six elephants. In the field, as a war correspondent, he used to give us all crazy with his westing and struggle, all through the night to get a single column the way he wanted it.

And like everybody, he has his unfulfilled dream. He is a poetry lover and he wants to write the perfect poem. He doesn't think he will ever do it, but that's what he wants most.

He has a wonderful inner serenity that wells up and eventually eases the pain of these frustrations. It stems, I suppose, from the fact that he has no envious, no jealousies, and very few dislikes.

He lives almost everybody he meets. If not, it is difficult to discover the fact. This is a rare thing in a town where the cutting wisecrack is prized as an achievement.

People attract him like magnets. It doesn't seem to matter who they are or what they do. Once, in Columbia, S. C., he went to the telephone office to file his column and stayed there all night, chattering away with the operator. You can't get him out of a room as long as there is one person left to talk with.

His instincts and sympathies gravitate naturally toward the small man, the under dog, the misfit, the guy who is hurting. When he writes about the fears and anxieties of people in this age, he is, in fact, doing a job of straight reporting. He knows how they feel.

What's more, he cares. Well, chief, that's a sketchy sort of picture of your new Sioux. If you haven't got a name for him yet, I'd like to suggest one — Happy Traveller.

NAMES IN THE NEWS—North Korean Maj. Gen. Nam Il, head of the communist delegation to the cease-fire talks, sports a fancy cigarette holder as he leaves his jeep to attend a session of the talks. President Truman, right, doesn't look very happy as he holds the compromise controls bill after he had signed it into law at the White House. He criticized it as "gravely deficient" in the battle against inflation. (NEA Telephoto)

Ava Gardner, Frank Sinatra Arrive in Mexico City; But the Crooner Isn't Talking

Mexico City, Aug. 2 —(AP)—Actress Ava Gardner came here last night with singer Frank Sinatra, who followed her to Spain last year, still close behind her.

The crooner curtly declined to say whether he would seek a quick Mexican divorce to marry the Hollywood beauty.

Frankie's wife of 12 years agreed last May to give him an uncontested divorce, asked about Hollywood rumors he would get the divorce here if it takes a week in Cuernavaca if all goes well—Frankie snapped:

"I don't know what you're talking about, and I don't know what they're talking about." Then he told another reporter:

"I can't answer that question."

Miss Gardner said she was here for a vacation. Enroute to Mexico City, in El Paso, Texas, she had been asked whether the trip had any romantic aspects.

"Now, please," she answered.

The couple declined to talk about their plans but Sinatra said he would remain in Mexico City. They were met by a representative of an Acapulco hotel, however.

The hotel representative sped Miss Gardner through customs and immigration and left with her by car, Frankie, who had logged some of Ava's baggage into customs, stayed behind for the inspection. And then left with Mexican friends.

Ava smiled pleasantly and answered questions briefly. Sinatra was terse.

The couple, who had a voided being photographed together during the trip, made no objection here as photographers clustered around them.

Fellow passengers on the flight said "they acted just like one of us" they seemed a little fond of each other.

The couple stayed well away from each other in the El Paso airport during an hour-long wait between planes.

When their plane left El Paso, they did not board it together, but they sat together on the flight here and went through immigration formalities together.

Farm Flood Loss in Kansas Is Put at 76 Millions

Manhattan, Kas., Aug. 2 —(AP)—A survey of flood damage to Kansas farms has placed the loss at $76,330,477.

Surveys conducted by county agricultural mobilization committees were announced yesterday by Emmet Womer, chairman of the state agricultural mobilization committee.

More than 20,000 of the state's 137,000 farms were damaged in 82 of the 105 counties.

Flood waters spread over 2,800,000 acres, and left 595,000 acres damaged by ravines, ditches or gulches, and deposits of silt, sand and debris.

Crop damage was placed at $54,500,000. More than 1,000,000 acres of wheat were flooded with estimated damage of $18,700,000, and 537,000 acres of corn at a loss of $15,343,000.

Navy, Marines Quit U.S. War Game in Huff

New York, Aug. 2 —(AP)—The New York Times said today that navy-marine air units have withdrawn from the big war games at Fort Bragg, N. C., because of differences with the air force over the system of air control to be used.

The story, by Hanson W. Baldwin, the Times' military expert, says the cancellation represents, "according to informed sources, an indirect by-product of far broader service differences about the control of aviation assigned to the front-line support of ground troops."

The "Exercise Southern Pine" maneuvers, termed the largest joint training exercise in this country since the end of World War II, is scheduled for the Fort Bragg-Camp MacKall area from Aug. 13 to 19.

Taking part will be three army divisions and other ground troops totaling 85,000 men, 400 air force planes and 12,000 air force personnel.

But, the Times says, navy and marine squadrons totaling more than 100 aircraft have been withdrawn.

In discussing "the differences between the services about air support" Baldwin writes:

"Fundamental, however, is the air force belief — not shared by the other services — that close air support is the least effective and most wasteful way of using air power x x x."

"Higher priorities of the tactical air force were defied as the winning of air superiority and the severance far behind the enemy front of enemy supply lines," the article said.

In contrast, Baldwin says, the navy believes in close air support of fighting ground troops.

The differing concepts, Baldwin concludes, "must be settled at the joint chiefs of staff level, all services agree, and not in the field."

Gambling Charge on Service Club

Jonesboro, Aug. 2 —(AP)—A charge of keeping a gambling device was filed formally here today against the VFW club as the result of a raid by county and state officers last Saturday night.

A state VFW official serving as attorney for the local club said he would enter a plea of guilty to the organization when the case is called for trial Friday morning before Municipal Judge Foster Clarke.

Sheriff W. V. Nash said he and other officers found four slot machines when they visited the club last Saturday night.

U. S. Launches Reprisals on Soviet Trade

Washington, Aug. 2 —(AP)—A series of steps by which President Truman is expected to withdraw trade concessions to Russia and its European satellites was described today by informed state department officials.

Step one: A presidential proclamation issued yesterday to establish the basic authority for carrying out a recent congressional order. The order instructed the President to cancel concessions to the Reds.

Yesterday's proclamation was accompanied by a letter from Mr. Truman to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. Snyder was ordered to deny trade benefits to 13 Communist controlled areas in Eastern Europe and Asia, including Red China. The effective date is Aug. 31.

Mr. Truman also instructed Snyder to embargo imports from China or ermine, fox, kolinsky, marten, mink, muskrat and wolverine furs.

Other areas covered by the ban on trade benefits are Albania, Estonia, East Germany, Communist controlled parts of Indochina, North Korea, the Kuril Islands, Latvia, Lithuania, Outer Mongolia, Rumania, southern Sakhalin and Tanna Tuva.

With the exception of Rumania these areas which had no firm trade agreements or treaties with the United States. State department officials said there was therefore no reason why action could not be taken now. Action against Moscow bloc nations with which the U. S. has lighter trade treaties will take longer.

Rumania had a trade agreement subject to cancellation on 90 days notice. Notice was given a month ago.

Notices of intent to end existing trade compacts also have been given by the United States to Russia, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Poland. However, in each of these cases a longer period of time must elapse until the cancellations can become effective. For example, the commercial agreement with Russia will not be terminated until December.

Termination arrangements also provided in the agreements themselves and vary from one to another.

Officials here made it clear that, barring some change in the basic political relationships between the U. S. and the Soviet-dominated countries, further trade benefits will be denied them as soon as each agreement has been terminated.

Crop-Duster Pilot Killed Near Dumas

Dumas, Aug. 2 —(AP)—A Laurel, Miss., pilot was killed in a crash of his crop-dusting plane near here yesterday while he was out on a mission to spray the pest.

The victim was Louis E. Ross, 33. He took off with a load of dust and started circling when witnesses said, his engine quit and the plane dived to the ground. The craft quickly was engulfed by fire.

Ross' father, Holt Ross, an official of the American Federation of Labor at New Orleans, arrived in Dumas earlier yesterday afternoon. He learned his son was on a dusting flight at the moment so began waiting for him to return.

The elder Ross was carrying a newspaper clipping he said he brought here to show his son the story told of the death of another crop duster in a crash near here last Sunday.

Ross' death was the sixth killing from crop dusting since crashes in Arkansas this summer — the third in the Dumas area. In addition to his parents, Ross is survived by his widow.

Truman Will Attend Jap Treaty Parley

Washington, Aug. 2 —(AP)—President Truman said today he will fly to San Francisco to attend the opening session of the peace treaty conference September 4.

Under questioning, he said he will fly out one day before the conference and return to Washington the day after the opening session.

Asked if that precluded anything that might be done in the interim, he replied that he would be in the city for the opening session.

Truman said he would be in the city for the opening session.

Control of Bollworm Discussed

The large number of moths and a break between periods of silencing corn indicates that we are headed for another real "old-fashioned" outbreak of bollworms during the month of August was the warning received by cotton producers yesterday from Gordon Barnes, Extension Entomologist of the University of Arkansas. The cotton insect meeting attended by about 40 cotton producers and farm leaders was conducted at the T. S. Mr. Davitt farm east of Hope in the Little Rouge creek bottoms.

Observations made by Mr. Barnes and County Agent Oliver L. Adams prior to the demonstration field meeting indicated that most damage being done cotton at present by insects was by bollworms. In most fields bollworms are well under control. No red spider have been found to date in H-imstead county but the number in some counties of Arkansas is very high.

In bollworm control the Extension Entomologist recommended using the following: (1) First choice - Insecticidal formulations containing 10 per cent DDT at 10 to 15 pounds per acre. Ten per cent DDT: 3-10-40; 2-10-10; 1-5-40 plus 5 per cent DDT added; Calcium arsenate plus 5 per cent DDT. (2) Second choice - 20 per cent toxaphene at 10 to 15 pounds per acre. Third choice - 3-5-40 or 2-5-40 at 15 to 20 pounds per acre when infestations are high. Fourth choice - Calcium arsenate.

Fields should be scouted for red spider consistently as they are very dangerous to cotton when present in large numbers. All of the organic insecticides used should contain 10 per cent sulphur where possible to prevent red spider outbreak.

Mr. Barnes told the group the bollworms maturing now and during the next few days in corn would emerge in two to three weeks in such numbers unless adequate attention was given to their control. Cotton producers observed bollworm eggs in the terminals by the cotton and were told to watch for the damaging of the terminals by the young worms. This terminal damage may only be determined by scouting at least twice per week from this date through the month of August or longer. Large bollworms are very difficult to kill so timeliness in locating and killing the young worms is all important.

Cotton producers not attending yesterday's demonstration meeting at the McDavitt farm may secure additional information from the following who attended the meeting: Vocational Agriculture teachers L. J. Brown of Blewins, R. E. Jackson, Aubrey Enoch, and C. E. Stuart Jr. of Hope; Farm-ers Home Administration County Supervisor W. M. Sparks; or Game Warden Lester Wade. County Agent Oliver L. Adams has detailed information on cotton insects available free for the asking at the Extension Service office in the county courthouse.

tion of the English language." But it added that "The subcommittee cannot condone the actions of these persons. . . . The report reiterated that Mason has a criminal record dating from 1922."

In his speech today, Hays said, "The facts disclosed by the subcommittee have been turned over to the department of justice and today a federal grand jury in Washington is being presented with the facts in this case."

Hays gave no indication that action is contemplated against any of those he said Mason had scolded.

Fathers Maxim Markiw and Peter Hewko, of the order of St. Basil in New York testified they paid Mason up to $200,000 for lenses they never got. They said they hoped to gain enough money to build a school and to enlarge their church and a summer camp for poor children.

Mason denied receiving more than $100,000. He said Eugart repaid him about 25 per cent of what he took in, and, he said, repaid to Eugart.

In its report the committee said "It can only be concluded from the evidence that Eugart is a fugitive of Mason's imagination."

The witnesses the committee heard testified Mason told them the money they paid him would be used as "sewer money" to bribe public officials in a position to lease government buildings.

Mason told the subcommittee he had a bribe scheme together with Eugart.

The committee's report said, however, that Mason "is not known to have contacted any government official."

Intermediate M. Y. F. Encampment

The Intermediate Methodist Fellowship enjoyed an Encampment at Caddo Gap Sunday and today.

The group attended evening worship services at Glenwood Methodist Church, and Rev. J. M. Hamilton, District Supt. of Arkadelphia, preached. Rev. Virgil Dietz addressed the Campers during the quiet hour Monday afternoon.

There were various camp activities, swimming, fishing, hikes and other games. Mrs. H. L. Broach, S. L. B. Tooley, and Miss Katharine Broach were adult counselors. The girls, Mr. L. B. Tooley and Herbert Griffin adult counselors.

Europe Should Double Arms Output in '52

Washington Aug. 2 — (AP) — The economic cooperation administration ECA said today that Western Europe is expected to double its production of military goods in the year ahead.

It's already been doubled once "in the two years since the North Atlantic treaty was signed," ECA added in its quarterly report for the January-March 1951 period. President Truman sent the report to Congress today.

ECA said most Western European countries are now spending far more for national defense and far less for non-military purposes than before the Korean outbreak. But it warned that raw material shortages and rising prices threaten both military output and the area's economy.

The report added:

"It is important, however, that these gains be preserved and extended."

ECA authorizations for the quarter amounted to $430,100,000 bringing to $10,700,000,000 the authorizations approved since the start of the Marshall plan program three years ago.

Western Germany received the largest amount, or $105,100,000. France received $77,000,000, Italy $48,100,000, and Austria $35,000,000.

Britain and Ireland already are operating without Marshall plan aid, and ECA Administrator William C. Foster said in Paris yesterday that Sweden and Portugal have decided to get along without further dollar help.

The report painted a generally bright overall picture for the quarter, saying industrial production in Marshall plan countries was maintained at the peak level of the previous quarter and was up 13 per cent over a similar 1950 period. It averaged 39 per cent above prewar.

Steel output was up 10 per cent over a similar 1950 period and close to the highest quarterly rate on record. However, the outlook for a further increase in steel output is "clouded" and depends on availability of high-grade iron ore, coal, steel scrap and alloying materials.

Agriculture was expanding — although prospects for next year were "not so favorable" — and trade, with the rest of the world had "widened sharply."

DOROTHY DIX

Does Age Count?

Dear Dorothy Dix: Does age make so much difference in marriage? I am 30, and have been going with a man of 26. He knew my age and said it made no difference to him. We have everything in common, and he seems much older than I. However, I was afraid I couldn't hold him, so I picked a quarrel and we broke up. He never knew the reason, I am wondering if I was too hasty in my decision.

ROSE

Answer: You are very foolish to break up as you did. A frank talk with your beau would have convinced you that the difference in age was unimportant to him.

First Things First

Age is not a vital factor for marital bliss. The things that make up a happy marriage — love, consideration, loyalty, kindness, generosity, mutual interests and a common love for God — are above a matter of years, and should come first. As the years go by the gap between birthdays lessens, and in another decade it won't be noticed at all.

It won't be easy to convince your sweetheart of the cause of your quarrel, but it is worth the effort and you'd better try to patch things up.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married for ten years and have a little girl 8 years old. For the last three years I have been working to support the family. For no reason at all, my husband left his position and refused to look for work, saying he wasn't well. He has had several physical check-ups, and talks with mental doctors. All agree he is mentally and physically capable of holding a job. He is a good father and loves us both. If he'd only work everything would be perfect. I don't want to turn into a nagging wife but my patience is running out.

H. W.

Answer: Since doctors have failed to give your husband the impetus to go back to work, you might seek legal aid. Perhaps a lawyer could convince him of his responsibilities as a husband and father. Occasionally one runs across a man who suddenly turns against outside work but is willing to take over all the care of the household and children while the wife becomes the breadwinner. Such a situation may be what you are facing. Divorce certainly is not the solution for you. Your child would be deprived of a father's love and care and you'd have to do the supporting anyway.

Have a lawyer talk to your husband, and if that doesn't change matters, I'm afraid there isn't much I can tell you to do except bide your time. This quirk of your husband's will probably straighten itself out unexpectedly and he'll go back to work as suddenly as he left.

Dear Miss Dix: What advice can you give me about my next door neighbor borrowing and never bringing back a thing? Now it has come to borrowing money. I want to be a good neighbor but I feel I'm being imposed upon.

C. L.

Answer: The only way to stop a perennial borrower is to stop giving. When she comes in for a cup of sugar, tell her the canister is empty. If she wants money, have an empty purse. When you have a friendly nature it may be hard to say no, but it's absolutely necessary.

Fechteler Gets Top Navy Post

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Adm. William M. Fechteler, who steered clear of the "admirals' revolt" against administration policy, is President Truman's choice for the top navy command.

The President sent to the Senate yesterday the nomination of Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, who Atlantic fleet, or chief of naval operations, succeeding in late or was being ignored and that died Aug. 13 while on a military-diplomatic mission to Europe.

Fechteler, 55 years old and with 35 years of navy service, has had wide experience in virtually every type of warship — except submarines and aircraft carriers.

That appeared to be one of the reasons why Mr. Truman chose him, because he was not an airman and thus not touched by the zeal with which navy airmen plunged into the controversy with the defense department and the air force three years ago. There have been strong indications in recent weeks that the feud between the air force and navy-long-range land based bombers vs. carrier-borne air power — might boil to the surface again.

In choosing Fechteler, the President passed by Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chief of the Pacific fleet, senior of four-star admirals on active duty. Radford is a navy aviator who planned a part in the old navy-air force controversy. He was to be commander of the Atlantic fleet. McCormick was a submariner before he became vice chief of naval operations. Vice Adm. Donald P. Duncan, deputy chief of operations, was proposed by the President for promotion to vice chief.

Mr. Truman sent the nominations to Capitol Hill soon after he had held a White House meeting with Navy Secretary Dan Kimball and Fechteler.

If the nominations settled the navy question at home, it left unsettled an international and a perplexity.

Fechteler had been picked as the American admiral who would be named supreme commander of Allied forces in the North Atlantic

President to Look Into Boyle Case

Washington, Aug. 2 — (AP) — President Truman said today he is trying to find out the facts on charges that Democratic national chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., received fees from a St. Louis printing firm which got a big RFC loan.

He did not say at a news conference what steps he has taken or through whom he is acting. But he said he is trying to find out the facts as he said he does in every case.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has published stories saying the American Lithofold Corp., received a $568,000 RFC loan in 1949 after retaining Boyle and that Boyle was paid $6,000 in fees. Previous to the printing firm had been turned down several times in its efforts to get the loan, the paper said.

Boyle has said he once represented the company in legal matters, but had nothing to do with the RFC loan. He also said he gave up his law practice when he took over his present Democratic committee job.

The matter was raised at Mr. Truman's conference by Raymond P. Brandt, Washington, correspondent for the Post Dispatch.

Brandt recalled that Mr. Truman told reporters last week that he was looking into Boyle's case. Brandt wanted to know what progress was being made.

The President said he is still looking into it.

Asked if he favors a senate investigation of the matter, the President said:

"The moon was believed to be made of glass before the invention of telescopes. The dark markings on it were thought to be the reflection of land and sea areas on earth."

4 Arkansas Negroes Held in Shooting

Clarksville, Miss., Aug. 2 — (AP)—Four Arkansas Negroes are in jail here charged with shooting and robbing an aged Moon Lake store owner.

Deputy Sheriff N. F. Black said Willie Mahara, "about 65 or 70," was shot Tuesday night as he started to open his store to sell the quartet some gasoline.

Black said Mahara identified Charlie Hurey as the man who shot him through the shoulder after another Negro, Walter Williamson, grabbed his arms.

The other two Negroes, Black added, are James Walter and Walter Dennis. All are from O-celoa, Ark. All four are charged with robbery with a deadly weapon, the officer said.

Black said the shooting took place about 11 p.m. after the Negro awakened Mahara and asked him to sell them the gas.

Mahara is in a critical condition, the deputy said. The bullet shattered his right shoulder and lodged against his spine.

Black said he did not know how much money the Negroes took from Mahara.

4-Year-Old Found After 24 Hours

Fayetteville, Aug. 2 — (AP)—A barefooted, scantily clad four-year-old boy who had wandered through a rugged mountain area for 24 hours was found yesterday by a group of youngsters.

And, except for hunger, scratches and fatigue, little Joe Robinson of near St. Paul, Ark., appeared to be okay.

The scouts found Joe asleep about a mile and three-quarters from his home. Awakened, he wailed:

"I want my mother."

The lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robinson, wearing only shorts, said he had strayed away from his parents home Tuesday to look for his daddy.

About 200 officers and volunteer searchers combed the area, beginning before dawn yesterday. The youths who found the little boy are Cecil Smith 14; Tommy Howard, 11, and Carl Mather, 10.

Jersey Joe to Go on U. S. Tour

New York, Aug. 2 — (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, who is going to hold onto his heavyweight championship until at least the early part of 1952, is going to cash in on it, too.

Jersey Joe's manager, Felix Boechicchio, said today Walcott will start a tour of the United States and Canada shortly, then hit South America in October and Europe in December.

Then he'll start thinking about meeting Erzsard Charles in a return bout for the title. An agreement extending the 90-day return clause in the contract was reached yesterday.

The date for the return will be set by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing club. He declined to say whether the fight would be indoors or outdoors, but Boechicchio has stated that he would like to have it outdoors in June.

Mangrum Is Favored in Chi Tourney

Chicago, Aug. 2 — Guarded by a couple of policemen who have orders to follow him everywhere but onto the putting surface of the greens, Lloyd Mangrum—his composure undoubtedly bolstered tremendously — has been made the favorite to win Tam O'Shanter All-American golf honors.

It could all be a publicity stunt, but dapper Mangrum insists he still has that anonymous telephone threat at St. Paul ringing in his ears. Someone told him last weekend not to win the St. Paul Open or he might be carried out of town. Shaken, he went out the next day and won.

Then he hurried to Chicago where his boss, George S. May, the Tam president, demanded a 24-hour bodyguard be assigned to Lloyd.

Mangrum receives a good stipend from May to represent Tam on the tournament circuit.

Mangrum, Sam Snead snorting off a threat made against him at St. Paul, Bobby Locke, Jim Frier and all the other topflight pros, except Ben Hogan, are in the field of 120 teeing off today on the first lap of the 72-hole $10,000 All-American meet. The winner gets $2,250.

More Steel Than Tin

The cans in which most of our foods are packed are at least 88 1/2 per cent steel, less than 1 1/2 per cent tin. The tin is applied in a thin coating to the inside and outside of the can, and serves to prevent rust and to insulate against air, heat and light. The can of "tin can" is derived from the English "tin canister."

Duties No Bar to Eisenhower '52 Campaign

Washington, Aug. 2 — (AP) — President Truman said today he does not believe Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's duties in Europe will interfere with anything in 1952 if the general is interested in politics.

But, the President told a news conference, he thinks in any event General Eisenhower will put duty to his country first.

Two senators, recently returned from Europe — one a Democrat and one a Republican — have suggested that Eisenhower's duties as supreme commander of Western European defense forces would keep him out of the field of possible presidential candidates next year.

Generally regarded as backing Senator Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination, Eisenhower has been mentioned as a possible nominee by the Republicans and also by the Democrats.

Senator Murray of Montana, who says Mr. Truman should run again, came back from Europe to give his opinion in an interview. A similar view was expressed by Senator Brewster of Maine, who is a Republican.

how long he thought it would be necessary for Eisenhower to remain in his post.

The President said the reporter's guess was as good as his own.

Then, he continued, if the reporter was referring to 1952 the presidential election year, he didn't think these duties would interfere with anything that might happen in 1952 if General Eisenhower happened to be in that frame of mind.

The reporter said Bernard M. Baruch had expressed the view that those who are trying to get Eisenhower into politics are doing a disservice to the country.

Mr. Truman would not comment specifically on whether that constitutes a disservice. But, he said he agrees with Baruch that Eisenhower is doing a magnificent job in Europe.

And he said he hopes Eisenhower will continue to do that magnificent job as long as it is necessary.

In other political notes at the news conference:

1. A reporter said former Republican President Herbert Hoover had suggested that his party "explore, oppose, and propose" in its campaign against the Democrats.

With a grin, the President answered that he liked that first word, but added the Republicans haven't done that yet.

2. Mention was made that Dr. Daniel Poling, noted clergyman, has been nominated by the Republicans for mayor of Philadelphia. Mr. Truman was asked his reaction. The President replied that he is very fond of that good Baptist, Dr. Poling. But then he added

he always has to be for the Democrats.

3. A reporter said there had been published speculation that Mr. Truman's appointment of two federal district judges in Illinois over the protests of Senator Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., involved possibly the President's 1952 intentions.

Mr. Truman said simply that he had appointed the judges in Illinois.

1. A reporter told the President that Senator Mundt (R-S.D.) had proposed an alliance between southern Democrats and northern Republicans who share the same views.

Mr. Truman said he had no comment, that he believed that was a question for Mundt and the Democrats, as he called them.

9 Violent Deaths in 3 Days in State

By The Associated Press

At least nine persons have died violently in Arkansas the past three days.

The state recorded its sixth fatal crop-dusting plane crash of the summer Wednesday when Louis E. Hess, 33, of Laurel, Miss., plunged to a fiery death near Dumas.

It was the third crop-dusting fatality in the Dumas area this season.

The body of a El Dorado woman, Sandra Linn, 20, was pulled out of a creek near Strong Wednesday. An autopsy indicated that she drowned.

A Stuttgart State, Bill Harris, 37, drowned in an irrigation canal near that city Wednesday.

4 Arkansas Negroes Held in Shooting

Clarksale, Miss., Aug. 2 — (AP) — Four Arkansas Negroes are in jail here charged with shooting and robbing an aged Moon Lake store owner.

Deputy Sheriff N. F. Black said Willie Mahara, "about 65 or 70," was shot Tuesday night as he started to open his store to sell the quietest some gasoline.

Black said Mahara identified Charlie Hurey as the man who shot him through the shoulder after another Negro, walfred Williamson grabbed his arms.

The other two Negroes, Black added, are James Walter and Walter Dennis. Aull are from Oceloa, Ark. All four are charged with robbery with a deadly weapon, the officer said.

Black said the shooting took place about 11 p.m. after the Negro awakened Mahara and asked him to sell them the gas.

Mahara is in a critical condition, the deputy said. The bullet shattered his right shoulder and lodged against his spine.

Black said he did not know how much money the Negro took from Mahara.

Bank Seminar U. of A. Aug. 6-10

Fayetteville, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Two seminars for professional groups will be held on the University of Arkansas campus during August. The eighth Arkansas Bankers seminar, held by the Arkansas Bankers association in co-operation with the university, is scheduled for Aug. 6-10.

4-Year-Old Found After 24 Hours

Fayetteville, Aug. 2 — (AP) — A barefooted, scantily clad four-year-old boy who had wandered through a rugged mountain area for 24 hours was found yesterday by a group of youngsters.

And, except for hunger, scratches and fatigue, little Joe Robinson of near St. Paul, Ark., appeared to be okay.

The scouts found Joe asleep about a mile and three-quarters from his home. Awakened, he wailed:

"I want my mother."

The lad, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robinson, wearing only shorts, said he had strayed away from his parents home Tuesday to look for his daddy.

About 200 officers and volunteer searchers combed the area, beginning before dawn yesterday. The youths who found the little boy are Cecil Smith 14; Tommy Howard, 11, and Carl Mather, 10.

Jersey Joe to Go on U. S. Tour

New York, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott, who is going to hold onto his heavyweight championship until at least the early part of 1952, is going to cash in on it, too.

Jersey Joe's manager, Felix Boechichio, said today Walcott will start a tour of the United States and Canada shortly, then

hit South America in October and Europe in December.

Then he'll start thinking about meeting Ezzard Charles in a return bout for the title. An agreement extending the 90-day return clause in the contract was reached yesterday.

The date for the return will be set by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing club. He declined to say whether the fight would be indoors or outdoors, but Boechichio has stated that he would like to have it outdoors in June.

Mangrum Is Favored in Chi Tourney

Chicago, Aug. 2 — Guarded by a couple of policemen who have orders to follow him everywhere but onto the putting surface of the greens, Lloyd Mangrum—his composure undoubtedly bolstered tremendously—has been made the favorite to win Tam O'Shanter All-American golf honors.

It could all be a publicity stunt, but depper Mangrum insists he still has that anonymous telephone threat at St. Paul ringing in his ears. Someone told him last weekend not to win the St. Paul Open or he might be carried out of town. Shaken, he went out the next day and won.

Then he hurried to Chicago where his boss, George S. May, the Tam president, demanded a 24-hour bodyguard be assigned to Lloyd.

Mangrum receives a good stipend from May to represent Tam on the tournament circuit.

Mangrum, Sam Sneed snorting off a threat made against him at St. Paul, Bobby Locke, Jim Frier and all the other topflight pros, except Ben Hogan, are in the field of 120 teeing off today on the first lap of the 72-hole All-American meet. The winner gets $2,250.

More Steel Than Tin

The cans in which most of our foods are packed are at least 88 1/2 per cent steel, less than 1 1/4 per cent tin. The tin is applied in a thin coating to the inside and outside of the can, and serves to prevent rust and to insulate against air, heat and light. The can of "tin can" is derived from the English "tin canister."

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1951
By King Features Syndicate.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York, Aug. 2 — When Senator Harry F. Byrd tried to oppose the pre-communist civil rights program of the Truman administration, he made a glancing reference to a threat which seemed important enough for stronger and longer emphasis. Discussing the report of the President's committee on civil rights, Senator Byrd said: "It is even recommended that the federal government should be given the power to suppress the discussion of matters in the states relating to national political issues."

I confess that up to then I had not read this report, although I believe I had read the newspapers at the time of publication.
This is a problem that hampers
all of us. Important developments affecting our basic liberties occur swiftly in a confusion which seems to have been carefully planned and the plots are concealed in long, dull, complicated documents which the daily papers are unable to examine and explain. This "report" was published by the government printing office in 1947 and is for sale at a dollar a copy. It is an attack on the rights of our citizens and it contains much of the communistic party program to conquer the United States. Yet it is an official document of our government, prepared by a strangely mixed group of persons selected by President Truman. It bears the endorsement of the president of the republic on which it would inflict grievous damage.

So I read this audacious tract and here is what it said on the regulation of political discussion
by American citizens: "The President's committee recommends" a law which "can protect participation in discussions of matters relating to national political issues."
This statute should authorize the department of justice to use both civil and criminal sanctions.

"Sanctions" in this sense of the word is a jargon term meaning
"enforcement" or "punishment," whereas in the American language the noun "sanction" means
"approval."

Senator Byrd said "supervise" and the report said "protect" but,
in any case, this committee here proposed a national law to be enforced by the department of justice, which certainly would give the federal government authority over political debates and arguments between individuals. This "protection" certainly would entail "supervision," because obviously the department of justice could not "protect participation in discussions" unless it kept itself informed of what people were saying. It would tend to make heckling a crime and inevitable would suppress political discussion. There would be a pretense, of course, that the purpose of this law was
to prevent white men in the south from intimidating colored men, but the power would be there to ban discussions of national candidates and issues. And already all over the urban, industrial north, "discussion" is noticed and suppressed by physical terrorism and economic coercion in union meetings. Who asked the federal government for this "protection"?

There is no more popular inspiration behind this proposal than there is for the proposed actually law and the anti-political law which Senator Byrd quickly recognized as attacks on the character and the liberties of the white people of the south. These things were hatched by a few northern carpetbaggers, most of them local to New York, who hate the southern people for their integrity, their accent and their personal exclusiveness. The communists have been waging propaganda along this line for years and Eleanor Roosevelt has been so aggressive that she at last provoked a fierce reply by W. E. DuBois, a southern newspaper writer and broadcaster entitled, "Weep No More, My Lady." The immediate provocation was a "column" in which the old woman discussed a visit to the University of North Carolina.

Her report was written in the vein of a traveler returning from a foreign country. DuBois wrote:
"Of course there are signs of poverty and unhappiness in the south! Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't have to come south to find such things. Almost from the window of her hotel in New York she can look out and see what is possibly the greatest cesspool of heaped-up-and-preserved down and run nigger poverty and crime and spiritual and moral and economic unhappiness on the face of the earth. We are speaking of that great Negro ghetto in the heart of New York that is Harlem."

Mr. DuBois was an amateur at book distribution, but his booklet has now gone into its tenth edition and the latest issues bear on the cover a caricature of La Bocc Grande bawling into a handkerchief. This design is enclosed in

THE GILA MURDER

BY JULIUS LONG

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"T.L. tell you why I didn't ask Johnnie McAdams to take me," Pat Cotton said. "I sneaked into the chief's outer office and heard him telling about the new will. It was a rotten thing to do."

"You knew, then, about the will?" Paul Baker asked.

"Of course. Lawrence found out about it and told dad and me both.
We both tried to dissuade mother from signing it, but you know how she was. Or maybe you don't."

"Why did you object to the new will? You were to be trustee, and you could have given Lawrence all the money he needed, couldn't you?"

"Yes, but the disgrace of having the money tied up in trust because of his incompetency would have killed him. Mother always kept him tied to her apron strings. A will like that would have made his life not worth living."

"So he planted the Gila Monster in her car and killed her?"

"He did nothing of the sort.
That's why I wanted to see you.
You can drive us to our cottage
at Seneca Lake, where Lawrence is hiding. You see, nobody knows we have the place. Dad bought it from his bonus money from the first World War. It's tiny, but it's been a hideout for all three of us, a place where we could escape
mother's authority."

"Why do you want us to go there to see Lawrence? The chief intends to arrest him. McAdams doesn't turn him in. He can probably defend on the ground of insanity."

"There's not a chance that he could defend him on that, Mr.
County Prosecutor, because my brother Lawrence is not insane,
as any alienist could prove. Sure,
Dr. Crevelston managed to convince mother of that and he was probably sincere. But Crevelston is a typical country doctor, and his notions on abnormal psychology are about as trustworthy as those of a typical country storkeeper. He disapproves of the books Lawrence reads, but if you pin him down, he disapproves of reading in general. In Coltonville any male over 10 years is suspected of being a little batty."

"Crevelston says your brother talks to himself and brings his hands."

"Sometimes mother had me
talking to myself, too."

"I'll risk your using it in that way. I want you to drive me to the cottage because I think you can help me persuade Lawrence to tell the truth about something he's been concealing."

"So he has been concealing something? What?"

She hesitated. "About — about the Gila Monster."

"All right, I'll drive you, but I think I ought to go back and tell the chief where I'm going."

"No! Don't do that, or I won't take you to the cottage. And you'd never find it without me."

Baker hesitated only a moment,
then drove to the Seneca Lake road and headed for the lake. Pat rode silently beside him. He had a feeling that more questions would be useless. He drove rapidly to Lawrence's old home something about the chief's death.
Not far from the lake Pat directed him to take a side road;
after driving a mile on the side road he was instructed to turn into a lane leading toward the waterfront.

The lane was overgrown with grass and obviously little used.
Baker drove a quarter of a mile,
and a tiny cottage loomed in the darkness. There was no moun-light. Baker alighted and held the door for Pat.

"If your brother is here, where is his car?"

"Parked around the other side of the cottage, I suppose."

"But there aren't any lights."

"Lawrence might be napping."

"They walked to the cottage. The nearer door was locked. They went around and found no car parked there. The front or lake side door was also locked."

"This is funny," said Pat. "He promised to stay here tonight till I brought Johnnie. I intended to have him tell Johnnie the truth until Johnnie did all that talking to the chief. Maybe we can force
the lock."

"It's rather dark to see how to do that," said Baker.

"Haven't you a flashlight?"

"Yes, there's one in my car. I'll get it."

Baker returned to his car, opened the right-hand door and pressed the button catch on his glove box door. The door fell open.
There was no light inside, for Baker's car was too low-priced for such de luxe equipment. Reaching with his left hand for the flashlight he kept in the glove box, Baker was suddenly conscious of a nauseous odor. He jerked his hand back.

SOMETHING hissed as he drew so,
and he could have sworn that a warty surface grazed his fingers.
Trembling, he stood still for a second. The foul odor became rapidly stronger. Then he brought his hand up under the glove box door and snapped it shut. Instantly
there was a thrashing and scratching inside the glove box. When the sound subsided a minute later,
the back of his shirt was wet with sweat.

Still shaking from his shock, he returned to Pat, who stood at the front of the cottage. He stared at the large square handbag in her hand.

"What's the matter? Didn't you find your flashlight?"

"I just happened to think of something. I'll have to go back at once to see Chief Mitchell. We'll talk to Lawrence later. Come,

Hope Beats Tomics in 4-2 Thriller

By Donald Hobbs

Hope's Legionnaires defeated the Red River "Tomics" in a thriller at Fair Park last night 4 to 2.

Reeder Huddleston pitching hit-less ball for 6 innings yielded 1 hit and 1 run in the seventh. He loaded the bases the next two innings, but got the next three batters out.

Hope scored 1 run in the 3rd on error, singles by Delvin Ross and Anderson.

Hope scored 3 more in the eighth on 2 bases on balls, 3 errors, and a single by Bob White.

Huddleston gave up 2 runs on 4
hits, walked 4, struck out 6.

Strong was the losing pitcher.

In the last inning Red River had the bases loaded and no outs (1 run had already scored) Gilson Ross lined out to Anderson at short and he pitched the ball over to Gunter for a double play. The next man then struck out.

Friday night Nashville comes to Hope. Hope will baseball their 13th straight win.

Dennit Ross will pitch for Hope.
Ralph Gregory or Jim Eason will pitch for Nashville.

Pitchers Fold in Red-Hot American

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pity the poor pitchers, caught in the steaming heat and double-header jam of the steaming four-club American league race. Even the best are crumpling under the strain.

Allie Reynolds, no-hit ace of the Yankees, lasted only one inning yesterday against Detroit as New York lost a 9-6 first game. Things were so tough that Casey Stengel brought him back to rescue Tom Morgan and save the Yankees' two-game lead with a 10-6 edge in the second.

Cleveland's Bob Lemon was bombed in the sixth at Washington where overworked Mike Garvin, a 13-game winner, had to help save an 8-6 first game. Early Wynn failed to last in the second game, fading for a pinch hitter in Washington's 4-3 victory.

Only one Boston Red Sox pitcher has gone 14 innings in the last seven games with the club, having at Fenway park where it is supposed to be invincible. Instead of gaining ground, the Sox have dropped 2-1-2 behind the Yankees.

Ellis Kinder made his fifth appearance in a week yesterday after Willard Nixon pulled a tendon in his thigh sliding into a base. Nixon, inconsistent all season with only two complete games, was pitching two-hit ball for seven innings when hurt. Walt Masterson and Kinder nailed down his 5-1 edge over St. Louis.

For a change Chicago got a full nine-inning job as Billy Pierce whipped Philadelphia, 4-3, to keep main seven games off the pace. But White Sox pitchers have been showing the strain during the eastern swing. Howie Judson and Joe Dolson, in particular.

Brooklyn's pitching also had a rough time at Pittsburgh where the Pirates knocked out Ralph Branca and roughed up loser Clyde King to win 12-9. Ralph Kiner hit his 27th homer for the Bucs and Gil Hodges No. 31 for Brooklyn in the loosely played struggle. The loss cut the Brooks' lead to nine games because New York split a pair with Chicago, losing 2-2 to Cal McLish and winning 2-0 on Rookie Al Corwin's seven-hit shutout for his first big league victory.

Despite a 1-0 blanking at the hands of Cincinnati's Kenny Ruffensberger, the Phillies held tight to third place because St. Louis lost.

The Cardinals were edged out by Boston, 2-1, dropping into a Warren Spahn won his 12th on a by Boston, 2-1, dropping into a fourth game with the Braves. Warren Spahn won his 12th on a five-hitter. Sam Jethroe sped home from first on an infield out and wild throw by Stan Musial to win the game in the seventh, nullifying 6-2-3 innings of hitless relief pitching by Al Brazle.

George Kell, who had a five-hit day, slashed a single in the eighth inning to beat the Yankees in the first game at the stadium. Kell's hit was off Spec Shea but Jack Kramer was the loser. Two homers by Gene Woodling and one by Yogi Berra went to waste. Hank Bitter drove in three runs and Joe DiMaggio two in the second game victory. Even Morgan hit his first major league homer but he needed help from Reynolds to stave off a late threat that included Joe Ginsberg's three-run homer.

Cleveland came up with three in the ninth to win the first game at Washington but succumbed to Julio Moreno's seven-hit pitching in the second half of the twilight night double. Al Rosen, Luke E. Berra and Al Rosen homered for the tribe during the night.

Ted Williams and Vern Stephens slugged successive first-inning homers for all the runs the Red Sox needed to numb the Browns.

Nelson Fox's ninth-inning double scoring Pierce was the winning blow for the White Sox at Philadelphia.

Brooklyn came at the Pirates, scoring two runs and loading the bases when Cal Abrams struck out to end it. Nine pitchers were used, five Pirates and four Dodgers.

Larry Jansen was beaten by the Cubs in the Giants' first game at Chicago, marked by a thubarb in the eighth when Manager Leo Durocher insisted that Sal Yvars batted out of turn. He fanned anyhow, but the Cubs were ready to protest to the umpires if he got on base. Later Durocher admitted he was wrong.

Baseball to Pick Czar Next Tuesday

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Baseball may elect a new commissioner Tuesday at a New York meeting of the 16 big league club owners.

First definite indication that the decision is near came yesterday when the four-man screening committee asked each club to send the owner or president to the special meeting. Some 30 or 35 men still remain on the list of candidates.

"We hope to come out of the meeting with a commissioner," Del Webb, New York Yankee co-owner, was quoted as saying by Ellis Ryan, Cleveland president.

"All of us are eager to get a commissioner just as soon as possible," said Ryan in a telephone conversation. "But we must get the right man. We don't want to make a mistake and we don't want to be pushed into it."

Webb and Ryan are the American league members of the screening committee that has been looking for a successor to A. B. Chandler since December. Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs and Lou Perini of the Boston Braves are the National league members.

Henry Lane and Mr. Lane.

Stockpile of War Goods Is a Third Done

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The munitions board reported today the nation's stockpile of strategic materials now on hand is $3,000,000,000 while the total objective is $9,000,000,000. It noted, however, that the objective may be revised from time to time to fit strategic and mobilization plans.

It added, without explanation, that the current objective compares with a figure of $8,590,000,000 six months previously. The report covered stockpiling activity from last January through last June. During that time, the value of the stockpile on hand increased from $2,540,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

The "rate of stockpiling continued to increase" and an appropriation last January allowed "vast acceleration" of contracts for materials the board said.

Congressional committees have twice issued highly critical reports of the stockpiling program under past munition board administration. Present chairman of the board is John D. Small.

The board commented that its buying program is curtailed by two factors, shortages of material and competition in the market.

It should be realized by everyone concerned with our stockpile of strategic and critical materials," the report said, "that there are serious national and world-wide shortages of most of them."

As a result, the munitions board, due to circumstances beyond its control, is unable to acquire these materials at its target rates. x x x

"With the steadily increasing need for materials for current military production, plus the urgent needs of the stockpile and the need for maintaining a healthy industrial economy, competition for limited supplies of materials has become keen. It is the dual function of the new civilian agencies to promote increased production and imports of scarce materials and to distribute the available supplies among claimants. Thus the present rate of stockpiling acquisition, although in most cases below the targets set by the munitions board, is governed by the determinations of the civilian agencies. This is the most significant change in the field of stockpiling programs and policies in recent months."

British Text Is Printed by Russians

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—Russia opened the Iron Curtain a crack today to let the Communist faithful read a "let's be friends" appeal from British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison.

The party newspaper, Pravda, published the Morrison statement today, in the same issue, lashed back with a better reply denouncing all he said as lies or distortions.

The unprecedented East-West exchange resulted from a challenge by Morrison last June during Pravda to print his views. Pravda agreed, provided the British press would give equal prominence to its pay. Six London newspapers reprinted the full text of the exchange today.

Said Morrison: "We are a peaceful people who want to feel secure," but can't while Russia maintains "vast armed forces and military establishments."

Why not, he asked, stop the barrier set up by Russia across Europe and allow a free exchange of news, broadcasts and even tourists?

Oh, no, Pravda answered, the British and Americans are warmongers who threaten the Soviet Union and we cannot allow freedom to "thieves, subversive agents, terrorists and assassins."

Morrison pegged his appeal to the Russian people on the argument that ignorance breeds fear and fear leads to violence. He said the possibility of a third world war would be lessened if Russia lifted restrictions and permitted

Pasture Pay Works Out for Farmers

Hempstead county is rapidly changing face. Farmers are putting on a blanket of green instead of fields of cotton, corn, and other row crops.

This change is being accomplished through assistance offered by the agricultural conservation program and other agencies of the department of agriculture. Farmers of the county are learning that improved pastures pay as a money crop as well as cotton or any other crop. Since 1936, when the Agricultural Conservation Program was authorized, approximately 75,000 acres of permanent pasture have been established or improved in the county according to Earl Martindale, chairman of the Hempstead County PMA committee.

He further stated that this is less than one half of the amount needed considering the general trend from row crops to livestock in Hempstead county. Farmers he said, have begun to consider pasture development as one of their normal farming operations. In 1950 farmers of the county established or improved 13,000 acres of permanent pasture. In addition, 3850 acres was established for supplemental grazing, the chairman said.

County PMA office records show that there were 22,348 acres of pasture moved in 1950 in Hempstead county to control weeds and brush, Mr. Martindale said. A well planned pasture program will do four things. It will save our soil, make it rich, and grow grass and clover to make meat and milk. . . to make money.

To receive these four benefits farmers must do four things for their pastures.

1. Make a good plan.
2. Use plenty of fertilizer.
3. Seed right and in the right combinations.
4. Manage the pastures properly after they are put in.

For additional information on the pasture program and assistance offered, farmers should call at the county PMA office or see their committeemen, Mr. Martindale said.

Farmers who have carried out pasture improvement practices in 1951 through assistance offered farmers by PMA include the following:

Hesse Crown Jewels Given Up by U. S.

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 1 (UP)—The United States returned to the Hesse royal family of Germany today $600,000 worth of crown jewels which three U. S. army officers, including a WAC captain, stole from Kronberg castle in 1945.

The gems were flown from Washington in a heavily guarded plane and presented to five princes and princesses of the Hesse family. The collection filled two army safes and included more than 270 items.

Brig. Gen. Claude B. Mickelwait, assistant judge advocate of the army who accompanied the western views and visitors to circulate freely.

Meanwhile, Russia's new English language propaganda magazine, news, offered to open its columns to American writers for the purpose of promoting "friendly relations". The offer was directed specifically to the New York Times.

(In New York, the Times said it had no comment on the offer.)

In his 1,500 word statement, Morrison called untrue the Soviet propaganda line that Britain, in alliance with other European countries and the United States, is "arming to the teeth to attack the Soviet Union."

He said the main purpose of the Atlantic pact is to avoid war and preserve the peace.

The foreign secretary said his government had intended to devote its energies to the economic recovery of England, but was forced to switch to rearming when it realized that Soviet Russia had adopted a postwar policy "whose only purpose seems to be to stir up trouble and international hatred."

If the Russian people were allowed to leave their country and travel about more, Morrison said, they could learn a lot about the West's friendly intentions.

Pravda, which has a circulation of more than two million, rejected Morrison's charge that there is no freedom in Russia.

"In no country is there such freedom of speech, and freedom of organization for workers, farmers, and intellectuals as in the Soviet Union," it said in a 2,000 word rebuttal. But, the paper added:

"In the U. S. S. R. freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of organization does not exist for the enemies of the people, for the landlords and capitalists overthrown by the revolution. Nor does it exist for incorrigible thieves, for subversive agents, terrorists and assassins sent in by foreign secret services."

It said the prisons and labor camps of Russia exist "for all these criminals."

Undeveloped Farm Helped by the FHA

Typical insured farm mortgage loans made by the Farmers Home Administration are exemplified by a loan recently made on a 245-acre farm, according to W. M. Sparks, county FHA supervisor.

This loan was made to undeveloped 245-acre farm which the owner was not able to operate on an efficient basis due to the lack of funds for land development, improvement of farm buildings, and the need of refinancing on a long-term basis of a small indebtedness against the farm.

The supervisor and farmer agreed upon the farm enterprises for which the land was best suited. Funds and technical assistance were provided for the development of 90 acres of permanent and temporary pasture to take care of planned livestock program. A loan in the amount of $120 was made for the construction of a house, repairs to other farm buildings, providing sanitary water supply, refinancing of the small debt, and $1450 for land development which included necessary amounts for fertilizers, lime sowing and seeding for pastures, clearing land of brush, and the construction of a livestock pond. The land development was planned in accordance with the recommendations of a technician from the Soil Conservation Service.

The supervisor stated that farmers are particularly interested in this type of loan as evidenced by applications recently made in his office. The rate of interest is 4 percent payable over a period of time not to exceed 40 years. The funds in this particular case were provided by a private lender in this state who will receive 3 percent interest annually on his investment. The

Ousted Detroit General Will Go to Germany

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The army is sending Brig. Gen. David J. Crawford, formerly commander of the Detroit tank arsenal, to American army headquarters at Heidelberg, Germany.

This was disclosed yesterday in a routine file of army orders. Army Secretary Frank Pace announced Sunday Crawford had been relieved of his Detroit command and reprimanded because he "has violated army regulations and not met the high standards required of any army officer." He was censured by a congressional committee of accepting bribes from contractors and using government property for personal benefit.

Crawford will remain at Detroit 30 days on temporary duty, but not in command. What he does at

lies Storm ital Ridge uring Parley

JOHN RANDOLPH

stern Korean Front, July 31 played. — "Fool mountain" was stormed by Allied forces who knew they could sacrifice their lives in the days of the Korean war.

Some died, but the high ridges, from which the Reds had been to watch every Allied move, were taken.

Any event, the capture of this towering hill mass in east Korea was accomplished with the most severe actions a five-day assault while true talks droned on at Kaesong.

It was by far the largest action since the armistice conference began — in fact, the only bit of "real war" since the delegates met July 10.

Why, then, did the Allies take it?

"Fool mountain"—nobody knows how it got its name — is higher than three Empire State buildings, taller than six Washington monuments.

Actually it is a steep ridge.

From its heights, the reorganized and retrained North Korean army watched every move in the Allied lines and on the main supply route to them.

It was a bad situation. The hill had to be taken or life in Allied lines would be unbearable — and lives could be frittered away in bad positions as easily as in assault.

From their observation posts in the rocky crags, the Korean Reds continually called in mortar and artillery fire against the Allies, forcing all road traffic to run the gauntlet on its way to the front, again and again.

Worse, "Fool mountain" had strategic importance as the bastion of a scientifically-planned fortress.

From west to east, these shielded "Fool mountain" — two of them nearly as high as the great crest itself, with "no number" hill on the west slightly lower than the others.

Each hill was covered with pillboxes, either of rock or logs with a massive earth covering. For five nights in a row before the jump off date of July 26 the air force bombed and blasted the hill positions.

A total of 37 1-2 tons of bombs was dropped in the face of some of the heaviest machinegun fire the air force has met in the Korean war. The hills were full of 51 caliber machineguns, and they often opened fire when the planes were still 500 feet high. It was perhaps the first time in the war the Reds so boldly faced Allied air might.

At dawn on the 26th the infantry started up the guardian hills. They made 2,000 yards and then were stopped cold. Then began a seesaw fight that went on for five days and parts of five nights. The main assault was directed against "no number" hill for if it could be taken the winners could pour in flanking fire on the main positions.

Three times in three days the Allies attacked the hill and each enemy slope and — as it suddenly stopped — the infantry stormed upwards.

Allied guns from "no number" time they were thrown off by bitter North Korean counterattacks. On the fourth day they took it.

Then yesterday, receded by a withering artillery barrage, they advanced against "Fool mountain" under cover of fire from "no number" hill.

Slowly the tough infantry men made their way up the rocky slopes.

They had close support from tanks that fired almost point blank into the enemy bunkers. Some of the bunkers, craved from rock, had only one entrance—their firing slit — and were defended to the death by North Koreans who had no way out. Unless, of course, they had chosen to surrender.

The infantry used grenades and flame throwers against some defenders. Finally the last assault position was reached late Monday afternoon.

Only five prisoners were taken. At the top of the crest. That did it. The attack by the crack troops swept up, broke the last of the resistance in 45 minutes and finally secured the crest at 11:45 p.m.

All that was left on the enemy, probably not more than two platoons, was seen fleeing down the north slope of Fool mountain.

The disarmed infantrymen looked down from their prize. Across the flatlands below they could see for seven miles.

The positions had been reversed. Now the Communists would be killed by Allied artillery and mortars while the delegates debated peace.

The victory was sweet, but it had been savage. There were Allied dead and wounded. And on the slopes and in the smoking bunkers were scores of dead Communists.

Once again artillery blasted and

Hollywood Contract Is No. 1 Mystery

By BOB THMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 1 — (AP) — You can't accuse this film personality of seeking publicity. In fact, she wouldn't even allow her name to be used in this story.

The player, whose name every movie goer knows, agreed to tell me about the wonders of studio contracts. But, lest she get into trouble with her bosses, she insisted on speaking anonymously. So we'll call her Miss X. Mysterious, huh?

"Everything I do is theirs," Miss X began. "And I mean everything. If I write a book, coin a joke, paint a picture — they belong to the studio. Of course, this right is usually not exercised, but it is their privilege."

"Furthermore, any use of my face or my name is strictly their property. I cannot appear in an advertisement without their permission."

The actress added that her contract gives the studio the right to alter her appearance. She said this became almost humorous in her early days as a starlet.

"First, they didn't like my teeth," she recalled. "The teeth were supposed to be too short; they didn't show up when I smiled. So they got some caps to make them appear longer. The caps rattled around in my mouth, so I secretly got rid of them."

"Then the makeup man he didn't like my nose. He wanted to make it bigger with a rubber piece. He started to make a plaster cast of my face, putting straps up my nose so I could breathe through. But I got claustrophobia and couldn't stand the plaster on my face. So I got to keep my own nose."

The film player must also retain her appearance in order to be paid. "If I get too fat, they can suspend me and make me go on a diet," Miss X said. She added that the rules concerning pregnancy are a chapter in themselves.

"The idea is to tell them you're pregnant as late as possible," she said. "Because as soon as you tell them, you're off salary — unless you're in a picture at the time. Then after the baby arrives and you are able to work again, you report to the studio. They look you over to determine if you are thin enough to be photographed. If you are, they have six weeks to get a picture ready for you. After that, you go back on salary."

Film players can also be suspended for refusing roles, as often happens. The studio not only can suspend the players, but cancel their contracts as well. If it is a mere suspension, the players are off salary for the duration of the picture—40 days, on the average. Then the studio has an additional six weeks to prepare another property for the players.

Nearly all players on studio contracts are paid only 40 weeks a year. The remaining 12 weeks are called "lay-off," and that's the bane of every actor's existence. During that time they can accept no outside pay without the studio's permission.

"We have other restrictions," continued Miss X. "For instance, we can't fly during the production of a picture. Some studios prohibit players from hiring press agents. And then there's the morals clause. If we are the subject of public censure or notoriety, we can be fired."

After listening to all these stipulations, I inquired: "Is it worth it?"

Miss X, perhaps contemplating the salary that comes in when she is neither pregnant, on lay-off or under suspension, smiled and said, "yes, it is."

Fish Lure Concern Cited on Labor Law

Dashington, Aug. 1 — (AP) — An Arkansas fish lure manufacturing company today was found guilty of unfair labor practices.

In a lengthy order the national labor relations board said the Wood Manufacturing company of El Dorado had violated the law by:

1. Discouraging union membership among its employees;
2. Unlawfully kept union meetings under surveillance;
3. Closing or threatening to close the plant to coerce employees and
4. Discharging workers because of union activity.

The NLRB ordered the company to reinstate with full pay and seniority rights 11 workers discharged or laid off because of union activity and closing of the plant and negotiate with the union for a contract.

Those who are to be reinstated are Fanny Murray, Allie Beach, Opal Beach, Natalie Daniels Crittenden, Lois Overstreet, Jodie Smith, Sally Smith, Doyce Smith, Neil Orr, Aline Dumas and Virgil Lee Colvin.

Charges of unfair labor practices were filed against the company the International Chemical Workers Union (AFL) Local 390 after the firm ceased operations Sept. 1, 1949.

The union said the closing by J. B. Wood, owner of the company, was a lockout.

PROMOTED—President Truman has named Dr. Martha Eliot, above, to succeed Katharine F. Lennett as chief of the Children's Bureau of the Federal Security Agency. Dr. Eliot was associate chief of the Bureau from 1941 to 1949.

Testimony at the NLRB hearing showed:

Aline Dumas and Fanny Murray, supervisors of the plant assembly line, became leaders in union activities when workers were told they would not receive the new minimum wage of 75 cents an hour.

A meeting of workers was held. On Aug. 31, the two employees—Dumas and Murray — were discharged. That night, workers held another meeting. Officials of the

Million Short on Bail, Reds Stay in Jail

Los Angeles, Aug. 1 — (AP) — A matter of $925,000 in bail keeps 12 indicted California Communists in jail today.

Their attorneys are figuring out ways and means to get the prescribed bail reduced so they can be free pending trial but haven't announced what steps they propose to take.

Four are held here, seven in San Francisco, all under $75,000 bond each, and one in New York under $100,000 bail. They are charged under the Smith act with conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

The 12 were rounded up by the FBI on complaints last Thursday. Before their lawyers had well begun efforts to get them released on bail, the Los Angeles federal grand jury indicted them yesterday and recommended the bail plant kept the meeting place under surveillance.

The next day when workers reported they found the plant closed, a notice was posted stating that the closing was because of repairs and inventory.

The plant later was opened but the 11 workers were not reinstated. In the meantime, the Wood company employees had selected the AFL Chemical Workers union as their bargaining agency. The company refused to acknowledge the union.

amounts. This put them before the federal court for arraignment and pleas.

But Ben Margolis, attorney for the four held here, at once launched a fight to prevent Federal Judge James A. Carter, before whom the indictment was returned, from hearing any part of the case. Margolis contended the judge must be prejudiced because of the defendants.

The lawyer also said that in prosecuted cases involving some public speeches and remarks, Judge Carter had declared he

Navy Asks 4 1/2 Billions for Airplanes

Washington, Aug. 1 — (AP) — The navy wants $4,497,889,000 for the next big phase of its aviation buildup. Of the total, $3,572,476,000 would go for new planes.

But even if congress votes every cent asked the navy doesn't expect to have a "completely modern" air force.

The head of the naval air force, Vice Adm. John H. Cassady explained why in testimony, made public today, before a house appropriations subcommittee.

"The aviation industry can't produce all the new planes the navy would like by the end of 1953. It could turn them all out at a cost on a full-shift basis, but the navy doesn't feel the extra would like to "wipe out" the Communist party on the West Coast. The judge, however, said he didn't believe that his expressed opposition to communism disqualified him and, further, that he holds no animosity or personal feeling against any of the defendants. He said he would hear the arraignment phase, at least, although the case might later be set for trial before some other judge.

Margolis switched tactics then and said he did not wish to enter a formal motion for reduction of bail at this time. Judge Carter continued the arraignment and plea to Aug. 13.

Cassady said some of the larger new models will cost nearly $7,000,000 apiece at first, because of the special tools that must be made to produce it. As production increases, using the same tools, he said the cost will drop to around $1,500,000 per plane.

cost of this expansion is warranted.

2. Before ordering large numbers of some kinds of planes, the navy wants to make much more complete tests.

Cassady told the committee this country is in no position to rest on its arms in the matter of aircraft development.

"Our air-to-air fighting success in Korea," he said, "has been due to the fact that our pilots — their training and their tactics — are better than the enemy's. Our success has not been due to performance advantages in our aircraft."

"The Russian MIG-15 has better performance in some respects than do the best fighters we now have in service. We must push our research and development to get fighters that will better Russia's best aircraft."

Cassady reported that guided missiles, down for $10,500,000 in the navy's program, are "gaining steadily in importance," although none are ready for combat use.

As for the cost of a modern navy plane, Cassady told the committee: "It will amaze you." It was $800,000 to $900,000 today, compared with $100,000 in World War Two.

Cassady said some of the larger new models will cost nearly $7,000,000 apiece at first, because of the special tools that must be made to produce it. As production increases, using the same tools, he said the cost will drop to around $1,500,000 per plane.
